PAUL L. SNYDER

Owner and President
Buffalo Braves Basketball Club

During the last four years, Paul L. Snyder has proceeded to build the Braves into a winner in the same manner in which he developed Freezer Queen Foods Inc. of Buffalo into the largest processor of frozen meat products in the United States.

He has formed one of the NBA's finest front offices and spared nothing to sign what is probably the best collection of young players in all of pro basketball. In today's competitive battle for basketball talent, Paul Snyder rates an "A" for the signing of such highly sought players as 1972-73 Rookie of the Year Bob McAdoo, and exciting Ernie DiGregorio who kept that trophy in Buffalo with his selection as the 1973-74 winner.

The Braves' five starters have a season of experience as a unit behind them, and that, coupled with the bench strength now available, could make 1974-75 the season in which Snyder's investments produce Buffalo's first NBA Championship Team.

A member of the varsity football and wrestling teams at the State University at Buffalo from which he graduated in 1957, Snyder went on to develop business, social and recreational interests that have tied him closely with the Western New York community.

He founded Freezer Queen Foods, Inc., in 1958, and in a few short years developed it into the leader in the frozen foods industry. When Freezer Queen merged with the Nabisco Co. in 1970, Snyder became Nabisco's largest shareholder and a Nabisco corporate officer. He has continued as president and Chairman of the Board of Freezer Queen Foods Inc.

Long a devotee of family recreational activities, Snyder also is president and owner of the Snyder-Darien Corp. which operates Snyder's Darien Lake, a family recreation resort near Corfu, N. Y., and various real estate properties throughout Western New York.

Snyder is a trustee and member of the University of Buffalo Foundation, the Board of Directors of Liberty National Bank and Trust Co., and the Board of Governors of the National Basketball Association.

EDDIE DONOVAN

Vice President, General Manager

Eddie Donovan, the former St. Bonaventure University head coach, who built the New York Knicks into world champions in 1969, has been the catalyst in the Braves sudden emergence as a power to be reckoned with in the NBA. During the team's early years he drafted and traded wisely—so wisely that NBA foes predict the Braves are on the verge of becoming the next great team in pro basketball.

Donovan has created a formidable, youthful ballclub that includes such No. 1 draft choices as Bob McAdoo, the 6-10 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year, and last year's leading scorer, and ballhandling wizard Ernie DiGregorio, last season's Rookie of the Year. In addition, his masterful trades resulted in the acquisition of Jim McMillian, Gar Heard and Jack Marin. Randy Smith, the Braves' guard with the lightning speed, was a seventh round draft choice.

At the end of last season, in balloting conducted by the Sporting News among the league's other general managers, Donovan was voted the NBA's Executive of the Year.

Donovan's expertise was most evident in the selection of McAdoo and DiGregorio. The Braves gambled on Big Mac, even though he had signed with Virginia of the ABA, and won when McAdoo's ABA contract was nullified because he signed it while still a minor. Picking third in the 1973 draft, the Braves came up with the plum of that year's crop, Ernie D, who went on to gain two coveted NBA league awards—assists leader and field goal percentage leader.

Eddie used the same operating premise to mold the Knicks into world champions in the six years he served as their General Manager after three and a half seasons as head coach. The Knicks came from the depths of the NBA to compile a 242-207 record (.539) from 1964-70 with Donovan as General Manager, capped by the 60-22 mark in the title year of 1969-70, Eddie's last before taking over the Braves' reins.

Among Donovan's draft choices on the championship Knicks were five No. 1 picks—Bill Bradley and Dave Stallworth (1965), Cazzie Russell (1966), Walt Frazier (1967) and Bill Hosket (1968)—and a second round selection, Willis Reed (1964). In addition, Mike Riordan was a 12th round choice and Don May a third round pick. Eddie also proved himself in the trading mill, dealing for Dave DeBusschere and Dick Barnett.

Donovan's move to Buffalo gives him a chance to prove a longtime personal belief—that Western New York is one of the greatest sports areas in the country.

He knew it was true when he coached St. Bonaventure to an eight-year mark of 139-57 (.709) while several times playing before large crowds in Buffalo Memorial Auditorium. His teams participated in five post season tournaments and the 1960 Bonnies with Tom Stith and Freddie Crawford attained a No. 2 national ranking.

Donovan's prophesy came true in 1971-72, in only his second season at the Braves' helm, when Buffalo boosted its attendance 72 percent over the previous season, to an average of 8646, the highest increase in the NBA.

It normally takes several years to build a champion, but Eddie is trying to speed that timetable in order to reward the fans of Western New York for their tremendous support of the Braves. After reaching round one of the playoffs last season, the talk around the NBA is that the coming season will be THE YEAR OF THE BRAVES.

Donovan started at St. Patrick's High in his hometown of Elizabeth, N. J., before going on to play basketball at St. Bonaventure in Olean. He then served a pair of two year stints as an assistant coach for the Bonnies and as head coach at Olean High before becoming St. Bonaventure's head coach in 1953.

Eddie and his wife, Marge, reside in Orchard Park. They are the parents of five Mickey, 21; Nancy, 19; Tim, 18; Mary, 17 and Sean, 14.

GEORGE J. KING

Executive Vice President

George has many years of experience in the fields of education and sports, as well as an extensive background in finance, management and administration.

His capabilities in organizing and supervising the Braves' staff already have established Buffalo as one of the strongest franchises in the National Basketball Association in four short years of operation.

A native of New York State, King mixed service in the Navy during World War II and the Korean Conflict with obtaining his Bachelor's Degree from Cortland State College and his Master's from the University of Buffalo. At Cortland State he was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and more recently was inducted into the school's Sports Hall of Fame.

He taught and coached in the Auburn, N. Y. Public Schools prior to six years of service as wrestling coach and trainer at the University of Buffalo.

The establishment in 1958 of his own private school – The Royalton Private School in Cocoa Beach and Cape Kennedy – then launched a varied 13-year career of public service in Florida. King became totally involved in the growing Cape Kennedy area as he was elected to two four-year terms as County Commissioner of Brevard County and served on the Board of Directors of two banks as well as serving as Senior Vice President of Cape Kennedy Federal Savings and Loan Association, all in addition to operating the Royalton School.

King was appointed by Governor Claude Kirk of Florida to serve on the State Civil Defense Advisory Board and by President Lyndon Johnson to serve on the Public Officials Advisory Council to R. Sargent Shriver in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

When George accepted the Executive Vice Presidency of the Buffalo Braves in 1971 he had served for two years as Executive Assistant to the President of Florida Technological University in Orlando. He recently was elected a Trustee and director of the FTU Foundation.

George and his wife, Elane, reside in Orchard Park. They have four children: Robert, 24; Christine, 21; Lynann, 19 and Jay, 7.

JACK RAMSAY

Head Coach

In three seasons under Jack Ramsay's tutelage, the Buffalo Braves have become the most exciting and explosive team in professional basketball. During the 1973-74 season the Braves doubled their victory total of the previous year (from 21 to 42) and became the first of the 1970 expansion teams to reach the NBA playoffs.

Ramsay stresses team play, and his influence on the Braves was evident in last year's cohesive unit which compiled the best record in the ballclub's brief history.

More of the same can be expected from the Braves this season as Ramsay will have all five starters back along with a much stronger bench.

His teams at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia won 234 games and lost only 72 in eleven years, a .765 percentage. Ramsay, 49, never had a losing season as his Hawks either won or shared seven Philadelphia Big Five championships and participated in 10 major post-season tournaments.

And then Jack spent a successful 6-year term with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association, the last four of them as head coach after he directed the club to the NBA title in 1966-67 as general manager. He was the 76ers GM from 1966-70 before devoting his time solely to coaching. He piloted the 76ers to a pair of runner-up finishes and a third place while qualifying for the playoffs three times. His Philadelphia teams won 174 and lost 154 games for a .530 percentage, the 1971-72 record of 30-52 becoming his only losing season in history.

Ramsay's 15-year college and pro coaching percentage of .644—408 victories and just 226 losses—prior to his initial 21-61 log with the expansion Braves ranks him as one of basketball's all-time great coaches.

The author of "Pressure Basketball," one of the most highly regarded basketball publications, and the possessor of a Doctorate in Education from the University of Pennsylvania, Ramsay certainly is well qualified to turn the youthful Braves team into an NBA winner.

In the collegiate and then the professional ranks, Jack has been recognized as one of the leading innovators and a gentleman who continually studies the game's progress and adjusts to keep up with the various changes. Much of his success has come from the use of the pressing defense and he will seek to incorporate that into the style of the Braves, who have been one of the league's weaker defensive teams.

Ramsay, who tripled as coach, athletic director and teacher at St. Joseph's, also played his college ball at the Philadelphia school.

In the summer of 1970 Ramsay taught basketball fundamentals in Rome to young Italian players and also instructed coaches in basketball rudiments.

Ramsay earned his Master's Degree as well as his Doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Jean, reside in Williamsville. They have five children: Susan, 24; John, 22; Sharon, 20; Christopher, 14 and Carolyn, 15.

GEORGE DADDARIO

Vice President, Sales and Marketing

An accomplished professional baseball player, George's varied and productive life several times has led him back to his home town of Buffalo – and sports.

Possessing an exceptional dedication to the job and sense of humor ("With my career you've gotta have one," he says), Daddario joined the Braves in March of 1971 as Director of Public Relations and proceeded to play a vital role in helping the club increase its attendance 72 percent over the first year of operation – from 4977 fans per game to 8646.

For his part in helping the Braves boost their attendance more than any other NBA team, George was named a Vice-President of the club and promoted to Director of Sales and Marketing.

But success is not new to the jovial, hard-working Daddario, who compiled a five-year minor league baseball batting average of .317 after winning 11 letters and being selected to four All-City teams in football and baseball at Buffalo's Kensington High.

George then gained front office experience as a general manager of minor league teams at Guelph, Ont., and Olean, N. Y., while furthering his education at the University of Buffalo and at the Bryant & Stratton Business Institute in Buffalo.

One of his greatest achievements was helping the Buffalo Bisons of the International League set minor league attendance records while serving as Director of Public Relations and Promotions from 1958-60.

Daddario then spent nine years in admissions work at Bryant & Stratton, with time out for another two-year stint with the Bisons in 1964-65, before joining the Braves' staff.

George and his wife, Lucille, reside in Williamsville with their six children. They are: Donna, 19; Frank, 18; George Jr., 17; Paul, 13; Danny, 11 and Diane, 10.

RAY MELCHIORRE

Trainer, Traveling Secretary

A valuable and highly regarded member of the Braves' staff, Ray Melchiorre is in his third season with the ballclub.

He came to the Braves in 1972 after serving as trainer for the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association for two years.

Melchiorre, 36, is a Philadelphia, Pa., native. His responsibilities with the Braves include formulating traveling plans and attending to the training needs of the players.

Prior to becoming one of the most capable trainers in the ABA while with the Condors, Ray served four years as head trainer and baseball coach at his Alma Mater, Bethel College, in McKenzie, Tenn.

Among Melchiorre's honors are selection as trainer for the 1970 East-West All-American Basketball Game in Memphis, Tenn., and the Kentucky-Tennessee college all-star games the same year in Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

Ray also served in the medical service corps at Fort Sam Houston in Texas, Fort Knox, Ky., and Ankara, Turkey. While in the army he was a distance runner and competed in the 5,000 yard run.

Ray and his wife, Liz, reside in Williamsville with their two children: Kathy, 6, and Lisa Joy, 16 months.

MIKE SHAW

Publicity Director

Mike joined the Braves organization this year after serving as News Bureau director at Niagara University since 1969. He also taught two journalism courses there.

He is a native of Rochester, N. Y., and attended St. Bonaventure University, majoring in journalism. As an undergraduate there, he was manager and trainer of the 1959-60 and 1960-61 Bona teams coached by Braves General Manager Eddie Donovan.

Shaw, 34, began his journalism career in June 1962 as state editor of the Binghamton Sun. Three months later he joined the Niagara Gazette as a sportswriter. He was assigned to the editorial department in June 1964 and was promoted to assistant city editor a year later. He became the Gazette's suburban editor in 1967 and remained in that position until he was named News Bureau director at NU in August 1969.

At Niagara, Shaw handled all the university's news and sports publicity.

Niagara's 1971-72 basketball guide which he compiled and edited, was awarded first place in a college brochure contest sponsored by the New York State Sportswriters Association.

Shaw is a member of the Greater International Buffalo Chapter of the professional journalistic society, Sigma Delta Chi, and is president of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church, Lewiston, N. Y.

He is married to the former Michele Berthot of Niagara Falls. The couple has a son, Jeffrey, 4, and they reside in Lewiston.

BRAVES REACHING FOR THE TOP

by MIKE SHAW
Braves Publicity Director

National Basketball Association teams got a taste of the "New Brave World" during the 1973-74 season, and they can expect a lot more of the same this time around.

Though last season ended on a disappointing note when Boston eliminated the Braves from the NBA playoffs in the controversial sixth game of their first round series, there were plenty of reasons for optimism.

Buffalo's starting team of center Bob McAdoo, forwards Gar Heard and Jim McMillian, and guards Ernie DiGregorio and Randy Smith, averaged just 24 years of age. Yet, the league's youngest team compiled the NBA's most improved record as the Braves doubled their win production of the previous year by notching 42 victories. As a result, they became the first of the NBA's 1970 expansion teams to earn a berth in the playoffs.

In just their fourth year, the Braves emerged as the most exciting and explosive team in the league. They averaged 111.6 points a game, tops in the NBA. In addition, every Buffalo starter and sixth man Jack Marin finished among the league's statistical leaders.

McAdoo won the scoring (30.6 ppg) and field goal percentage (.547) titles, while Ernie D captured the assists (8.2 per game) and free throw percentage (.902) championships.

Most significant was the fact the Braves began to mature. As Coach Jack Ramsay noted, "We started to play better as a team. True, we may have surprised a lot of people, but I felt we were capable of doing it all along."

Admittedly pleased with the Braves' progress to date, Ramsay also realizes much work remains to be done before an NBA championship can come to Buffalo.

"We led the league in offense last year, but we also were last in defense (allowing 111.8 ppg)," Ramsay explained.

"I think we shoot better than any team in the NBA," he added, "and I am confident we can score enough points to win every game we play."

Ramsay believes the Braves' success during 1974-75 and in future years depends upon how well his athletes improve their defensive skills. "We've got to do it. We've got to learn to work together defensively as well as offensively," he remarked.

He has set a goal of 50 victories for the Braves this season, and after their performance of a year ago, it certainly does not appear to be an impossible task. However, Ramsay feels the Braves face a much tougher schedule this time. "A year ago we played Central Division teams a total of 24 games and won 16 of them," he noted. During 1974-75, the Braves have just 20 games with Central Division opponents and play for additional contests with teams in their own Atlantic Division.

They play Boston and Philadelphia nine times and New York eight.

The acquisition of two seasoned veterans shortly before the start of pre-season training should make the task a little easier.

General Manager Eddie Donovan, the Braves' front office magician, whose draft selections and trades have helped create the NBA's new powerhouse, was up to his old tricks.

In a straight cash deal with Atlanta, he purchased rugged 6-10 Dale Schlueter to back up McAdoo. Then, in what must be considered an excellent deal for the Braves, he acquired 6-3 playmaker, Bob Weiss from the Chicago Bulls in a trade for guard Matt Guokas and future considerations.

This year when Ernie D comes out of the lineup, the Braves will have in Weiss someone who can run the ballclub and penetrate the opposition's defense.

Weiss and Schlueter along with Marin give the Braves formidable bench strength to complement their high-scoring starting unit.

As the pieces in the puzzle begin falling into place, the picture becomes clearer. Not far off is an NBA championship.

14 KEN CHARLES

Position: Guard

Height: 6-3

Weight: 180

Age: 23

Born: July 10, 1951 Trinidad

High School: Brooklyn Prep.

College: Fordham '73

Residence: Brooklyn

NBA Experience: Buffalo, 2nd year

How Acquired: 3rd Round Draft Choice 1973

THIS SEASON: With a year under his belt, the hustling Charles is expected to challenge for the No. 3 guard spot behind Ernie D and Randy Smith.

LAST YEAR: The cat-quick Charles, head bobbing as he dribbled, became one of the most popular Braves in his rookie year. His hustle on defense and hard-nosed drives to the hoop on offense won him fans. His clothes-line-like jump shot with hands flapping and waving, if the shot hit its target, became his trademark. Kenny averaged 3.9 points and shot .476 from the field while playing an average of 11.7 minutes a game. In the Braves drive to the playoffs, his playing time decreased late in the season with the addition of the more experienced Matt Guokas.

CAREER HISTORY: Charles finished as Fordham's third all-time leading scorer with 1,697 points in 84 games for a 20.2 average. He set an all-time single season record of 679 points and a 24.3 average in his senior year. That earned him all-Eastern honors as well as all-New York Metropolitan Area and Honorable Mention All-American. He led the Rams into the NIT as a junior.

NOTES: An excellent student while at Fordham, Kenny plans to attend law school. His summertimes have been taken up with play in New York's famed Rucker League. The glib Charles is known as the best quipster on the team. He keeps his teammates loose with a constant barrage of chatter. Kenny is single.

15 ERNIE DiGREGORIO

1973-74 NBA Rookie of the Year

Position: Guard

Height: 6-0

Weight: 180

Age: 23

Born: Jan. 15, 1951 N. Providence

High School: North Providence

College: Providence '73

Residence: Providence, R.I.

NBA Experience: Buffalo, 2nd year

How Acquired: 1st Round Draft Choice 1973

THIS SEASON: Ernie D again will be the quarterback of the Braves attack, one of the preciously few bonafide players who really can run a team's offense. Because of his size Ernie admittedly will always be a problem on defense, but he will cause even more problems for his opponents on offense because of his combined passing and scoring abilities. Ernie's progress could carry him into a spot on the East All-Stars in just his second pro season.

LAST YEAR: Many said he couldn't cut it as a pro, but when the votes were in for NBA Rookie of the Year, Ernie won in one of the largest landslides in history – 110 of 115 ballots cast. Ernie had won both the NBA assists (8.2 per game) and free throw (.902) titles besides scoring 15.2 points a game. Included among his feats was a 25 assist performance at Portland on Jan. 1, the third highest total in NBA history and the best playmaking effort on the road ever. But more importantly, Ernie was the catalyst or funnel from which the bulk of the Braves' points emanated. Just ask McAdoo and the others how important Ernie was. He got the ball to his teammates – at the right – better than any other player in the league. And because of it the Braves had the highest scoring offense (111.6 ppg) in the NBA and tied for the second best shooting percentage (.480). Ernie, of course, set Braves single season records in assists (663) and free throws (174 of 193) and was topped by only McAdoo and McMillian in playing time (35.9 min. pg). DiGregorio also was voted top rookie by his fellow players in the Sporting News poll and by the New York Metropolitan Basketball Writers. Ernie D certainly was worth obtaining.

CAREER HISTORY: Ernie's feats while at Providence and his heroics against the touring Russian National team in 1973 already are legend. Ernie led the Friars to a 68-18 (.791) record and 3 post-season tournament appearances while finishing as the school's all-time assists leader with 527 in 86 games and ranks behind only Jimmy Walker in Providence career scoring with a 20.5 average. He led the U.S. to a 5-3 triumph over the Russians in their international series.

NOTES: Ernie and his wife, Susan, became the parents of daughter Tara Rae this June. They are building a dream home complete with a basketball court in North Providence, R.I. The industrious Ernie formed his own basketball camp in nearby Franklin, Mass., last summer. Eddie Donovan and several Braves served as instructors.

24 GAR HEARD

Position: Forward

Height: 6-6

Weight: 226

Age: 26

Born: May 3, 1948 Hogansville, Ga.

High School: Ethel Knight, LaGrange, Ga.

College: Oklahoma '70

Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

NBA Experience: Seattle, Chicago, Buffalo, 5th year

How Acquired: From Chicago along with Kevin Kunnert for John Hummer and 2nd Round Draft Choice, Sept. 10, 1973

THIS SEASON: Gar served notice through his playoff performance against Boston that he is ready to move into the top echelon of forwards in the NBA. He already is one of the four best rebounding forwards in the league, has long arms and quickness to excel on defense. His shooting has improved steadily to make him one of the most valuable forwards in the league in just his 5th season. No longer is Gar underrated.

LAST YEAR: Gar's career received a couple of breaks, one of them back-handed. First, he became the central figure in a deal with the Chicago Bulls. Second, Gar was given a starting shot when Bob Kauffman came up lame in training camp with a groin pull. Kauffman was able to crack the starting lineup for only one game as Heard took advantage of his opportunity to place 6th in the league in blocked shots (2.84 pg) and 10th in rebounds (11.7 pg). Only Elvin Hayes, Spencer Haywood and Happy Hairston grabbed more rebounds as forwards than Heard, and Haywood played much of the season at center. Gar finished 4th on the Braves in scoring (15.3 ppg), 2nd in rebounding and blocked shots to McAdoo, and improved his field goal shooting to a respectable .435. In addition, Gar set single game marks for the Braves of 9 blocked shots and 11 offensive rebounds. Heard then really established himself by averaging 16.8 ppg and shooting .457 in the toughest of all competition, the playoffs against Boston.

CAREER HISTORY: The No. 3 draft choice of the Seattle Sonics in 1970 after starring for present Phoenix Suns coach John McLeod at Oklahoma, Heard played two years with the Sonics before being traded to Chicago after the third game of the 1972-73 season along with a No. 2 draft choice for Kennedy McIntosh. Heard averaged 5.9 and 7.9 points for the Sonics and 10.1 as a spot starter in 72-73 with the Bulls. He had won a starting job in training camp with the Sonics in 71-72, but a pulled hip muscle sidelined him. He won all Big-8 honors at Oklahoma and was most valuable player in the Volunteer Classic and Marshall Invitational in his senior year when he averaged 22 points and 12 rebounds.

NOTES: A bachelor, Heard resides in Atlanta in the off-season, playing basketball against other pros in the Atlanta area and keeping local clothing and shoe shops in business. He rivals Randy Smith for the Braves clothes hound award. While at Seattle, Gar was backed by his own "Heardies Geardies" fan club. He's picked up the nickname "Gar" in his travels.

42 JACK MARIN

Position: Forward
Height: 6-6
Weight: 210
Age: 30
Born: Oct. 12, 1944 Sharon, Pa.
High School: Farrell, Pa.
College: Duke '66
Residence: Los Angeles
NBA Experience: Baltimore, Houston Buffalo, 9th year
How Acquired: In a trade Feb. 1, 1974 with Houston. Buffalo got Marin and Matt Guokas for Kevin Kunnert and Dave Wohl

THIS SEASON: As was the case a year ago, Marin will be the backup forward behind Gar Heard and Jim McMillian. A tremendous shooter, the eight-year veteran seems to be at his best in clutch situations. When Jack comes off the bench, Braves opponents can expect plenty of trouble.

LAST YEAR: Marin came to the Braves last Feb. 1, and made his presence felt immediately. During Buffalo's drive for a playoff berth, Jack scored at the rate of 13.4 points a game, while connecting on .545 of his shots from the field. He also made nearly 88 percent of his free throws. Just five days before joining the Braves, Marin reached the 10,000-points plateau, ironically in a game against Buffalo in which he scored 16. In the playoffs against Boston, Marin continued his outstanding performances scoring about 8.5 points a game and hitting almost 47 percent of his field goal attempts.

CAREER HISTORY: A first round draft choice of the Baltimore Bullets in the 1966 NBA draft, Jack was an All-America selection at Duke in his senior year. During his sophomore and senior years, Duke advanced to the NCAA semifinals. He ranks eighth on the school's all-time scoring list. Marin spent seven seasons with the Bullets, and enjoyed his best year in 1971-72 when he averaged 22.3 points a game, and led the NBA in the free throw department with a percentage of .894. He came to the Houston Rockets in June 1972 in a trade for Elvin Hayes. The high point of Marin's career came on Nov. 7, 1971, when he tallied 42 points at Houston. Marin played in both the 1972 and 1973 All-Star games, and has been in the playoffs five times, four of them with Baltimore. He has a lifetime free throw percentage of .841.

NOTES: Jack was a B student at Duke, and has completed two years of law school at the University of Maryland. He hopes to eventually get his law degree. During the past summer, he and his wife, the former Robin Green of Houston, purchased a new home in Los Angeles. One of the NBA's better golfers, Marin also played in several tournaments around the country during the summer.

Position: Center
Height: 6-10

Age: 23
Born: Sept. 25, 1951 Greensboro, N.C.
High School: Ben L. Smith, Greensboro
College: North Carolina '73
Residence: Greensboro, N.C.
NBA Experience: Buffalo, 3rd Year
How Acquired: 1st Round 1972 Draft

THIS SEASON: What can Mac do to surpass last year? He knows what. He can top the NBA in scoring and shooting again, and this time lead the Braves to the NBA title, a goal that's not out of line with Mac's talents. On a more personal level, McAdoo will attempt to become even more of an offensive threat by moving easier without the ball and improving his defense against the game's bigger centers like Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Bob Lanier. Look for Mac to finish at or near the top again in scoring rebounding, shooting and blocked shots, and to challenge for the MVP crown if the Braves should win the Atlantic Division. He has tremendous potential and he just turns 23 a few weeks before the start of the season.

LAST YEAR: Mac did it all. In just his second season of pro ball (age wise his first out of college), he won the NBA scoring title (30.6 ppg) and shooting crown (.547) and was third in rebounding (15.1) and blocked shots (3.32). Those were the best individual statistics in the NBA in several years and earned him a runner-up place in the league's MVP race to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. However, Mac won the CBS Player of the Year honor. In addition, he beat out Bob Lanier and Dave Cowens for second team selection on the NBA All-Star Team. And, the national exposure he received while scoring points in playoff game No. 4 against Boston last year certainly did him no harm. Now, when McAdoo's name is mentioned around the nation, people just shake their heads and say "What a shooter." It's true. He has been called the best shooting big man in history. His regular season feats last year included 29 games above 30 points, 7 above 40 and a career high and Braves record of 52 points against Boston Feb. 22. He also had games of 49 and 42 in the regular season against the Celtics. Mac also became the second Brave in history to play in the All Star game when he scored 11 points for the East Jan. 15 in Seattle.

CAREER HISTORY: McAdoo has been a top star at every level of competition, being selected 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year as a hardship signee after leading North Carolina to the NCAA semifinals as a junior in 1971-72. He averaged 18.0 ppg as a Braves rookie. Prior to his Carolina stint he led Vincennes, Ind., to the National JUCO title in 1970. He was the state high jump champion at Ben L. Smith High in Greensboro before enrolling at Vincennes.

NOTES: Bob passed up his senior year at North Carolina to sign a hardship contract with the Braves, who took him as the second player in the NBA draft in 1972. Mac went to the semifinals of the NBA One-on-One contest in 1972-73. Bob and his wife, Brenda, are the parents of one-year old Robert III.

5 JIM McMILLIAN

Position: Forward
Height: 6-5
Weight: 225
Age: 26
Born: Mar. 11, 1948 Raeford, N.C.
High School: Jefferson H. S., Brooklyn, N. Y.
College: Columbia '70
Residence: East Amherst, N. Y.
NBA Experience: Los Angeles, Buffalo, 5th year
How Acquired: From Los Angeles in trade for Elmore Smith, Sept. 17, 1973

THIS SEASON: Jim is just nearing his peak as one of the best — he may become the best whenever John Havlicek retires — small forwards in all of basketball. McMillian has all the assets for his position — shooting and scoring ability, excellent rebounding, passing and defensive capabilities. His most valuable trait may be his leadership. Jim has taught the others to sacrifice themselves and their individual statistics for the good of the team. The move that brought the Braves into title contention more than any other was the McMillian deal. Watch for Jim to be selected for the All-Star game.

LAST YEAR: Jim's life changed abruptly on Sept. 17 when he went from the warm environs of Los Angeles to Buffalo. But if you ask Jim he'll say it's the best move that ever happened to him. As GM Eddie Donovan says, Jim became the "heart" of a potential Braves Championship team. "He's the player the others look to for setting a winning example. Jim knows the meaning of sacrifice. He's got class," Donovan observes. He finished 2nd on the team in scoring (18.6 ppg), shot .494 from the field, and placed 10th in the league in free throw shooting at .858. He also was third on the squad in rebounding at 7.3 pg. Just as importantly, he was the Braves' defensive answer to such other great small forwards as Havlicek, Bill Bradley and Lou Hudson. McMillian knew when and where to score, rebound and pass. When McAdoo was having an infrequent off-night, Jim would take over the scoring burden. And so it went, right into the playoffs. The Braves gave Boston a great playoff series largely because McMillian gave Havlicek a tough battle. McMillian had a regular season career scoring high of 48 points against Golden State Nov. 3. Jim, like Randy Smith, played in all 82 Braves games and set a Braves record of 3322 minutes in one season.

CAREER HISTORY: Jim emerged as a star in the NBA during the playoffs of his rookie year, 1970-71, when he averaged 15.1 points after replacing the great Elgin Baylor. He took over as a starter the next season and averaged 18.8 ppg. His average was 18.9 the following year. He has been in the playoffs all four seasons. His 4-year averages are 16.7 ppg, 5.9 rebounds, .475 from the field and .826 from the foul line. Quite impressive. McMillian was the Laker's No. 1 draft choice in 1970 after being selected a two-time All-American at Columbia University and being voted the MVP of the New York Metro Area in each of his three varsity seasons.

NOTES: A needler, Jim keeps the Braves players loose in the locker room before and after the game. McMillian married the former Alexis Hilton last May and bought a house in East Amherst later in the summer. He attended the State University of Buffalo Graduate School of Business during the summer and found time to make several appearances in the Buffalo area. Jim's younger brother, Lloyd, 20, is a starter for Loyola of Los Angeles.

22 PAUL RUFFNER

Position: Center

Height: 6-11

Weight: 225

Age: 26

Born: Oct. 15, 1948 Santa Monica, Calif.

High School: Earl Warren

College: Brigham Young '70

Residence: Provo, Utah

Pro Experience: Chicago (NBA) 70-71
Pittsburgh (ABA) 71-72
Buffalo, 3rd year

How Acquired: Free Agent, 1973

THIS SEASON: After earning a spot on the team last year as a result of his spirited play in the rookie and training camps, Paul will again be a backup center in this season's ballclub.

LAST YEAR: In 20 games with the Braves a year ago, Ruffner scored 30 points, averaging 1.5 per contest.

CAREER HISTORY: A standout at Brigham Young University, Ruffner was the Chicago Bulls' second draft choice in 1970. He appeared in 10 games during the 1970-71 season, averaging about 3.5 points per contest. Later on the season, the Bulls sent him to Arlington Heights, Ill., of the Continental League to gain additional experience. In the summer of 1971, he was involved in the only trade in history between the NBA and ABA, going to the Pittsburgh Condors in the Howard Porter deal. With the Condors he averaged 5.7 points a game in 1971-72, while hitting .478 of his shots from the field.

NOTES: Paul attended graduate school at Brigham Young during the past summer. His wife, Lael, is a Milwaukee, Wis., native. They have two children, Shannon 3, and Byron 2, and live in Provo, Utah.

54 DALE SCHLUETER

Position: Center
Height: 6-10
Weight: 235
Age: 28
Born: Nov. 12, 1945 Tacoma, Wash.
High School: George Washington, Denver
College: Colorado State '67
Residence: Lake Oswego, Ore.
NBA Experience: San Francisco, Portland, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Buffalo, 7th year
How Acquired: Purchased from Atlanta, Aug. 29, 1974

THIS SEASON: A six-year NBA veteran, Dale will be used as the Braves' backup center to Bob McAdoo. He should help to bolster the team's front line.

LAST YEAR: Schlueter was a reserve for Atlanta during the 1973-74 season, appearing in 57 games. He averaged about three points a game and had a field goal percentage of .476. He played in three games against the Braves, scoring 12 points in one of them.

CAREER: Dale began his NBA career with San Francisco in 1968 after being selected by the Warriors in the sixth round of the 1967 NBA draft. In 1970, he went to Portland in the expansion draft. After playing there for two seasons, he was traded to Philadelphia for Dave Wohl. Schlueter then went to the Hawks in 1973 in exchange for Don May. In six seasons, he has averaged 6.6 points and 6.3 rebounds a game. Regarded as one of the league's better percentage shooters with a career average of .501, his best year was 1971-72 at Portland where he averaged 11.7 points a game, and had a field goal percentage of .525. He also was credited with 285 assists, third best among the NBA's centers.

NOTES: Schlueter, his wife Debbie, and their daughter Kirsten, 2, reside in Lake Oswego, Oregon.

9 RANDY SMITH

Position: Guard

Height: 6-3

Weight: 180

Age: 25

Born: Dec. 12, 1948 Bellport, L.I.

High School: Bellport H.S., Brookhaven, N. Y.

College: Buffalo State '71

Residence: Buffalo

NBA Experience: Buffalo, 4th year

How Acquired: 7th Round Draft Choice 1971

THIS SEASON: Randy's exceptional speed, quickness and leaping ability have established him as one of the NBA's most exciting and effective players. Once again, he'll team with Ernie DiGregorio to give the Braves an explosive backcourt combination. Entering this campaign, Randy has played in 185 consecutive Braves games.

LAST YEAR: Acknowledged as one of the NBA's top defensive guards, Randy also has become a fine offensive player. Last season, he was the Braves' third leading scorer with 1,267 points, an average of 15.5 per game. In 19 contests he scored 20 or more points. On four occasions Randy reached or surpassed the 30-point plateau. In addition he had a field goal percentage of .492, his best in three seasons with the Braves. He was second on the team in assists with 383, and his team-leading 203 steals gave him an average of slightly less than 2.50 per game, third best in the league. Randy and Jim McMillian were the only Braves to play in all 82 season games. In the playoffs against Boston, Randy led the Braves in steals with 10, and averaged 14.2 points a game. He holds the team's single quarter scoring mark of 23 points, established in a game at Boston, Oct. 20, 1972.

CAREER HISTORY: Randy's speed on the basketball court once prompted a sportscaster to remark that he moves up and down the floor as if he were running on a postage stamp. Braves coach Jack Ramsay regards him as the fastest player in the NBA, and few persons will dispute that. Randy's quickness and speed were clearly demonstrated during his undergraduate days at Buffalo State where he earned All-America honors in track, basketball and soccer. He still holds the school's high jump record of 6-10¾. And during Randy's three seasons on the varsity basketball team, the Bengals won three consecutive SUNYAC titles. In addition, he was the leading scorer in the 1970 NCAA College Division tournament at Evansville, Ind. During his three seasons with the Braves, Randy has averaged 14.6 points a game while compiling a field goal percentage of .471.

NOTES: Last summer, Randy was involved in several basketball clinics in the Buffalo area. He also helped form a soccer league in the city. A bachelor, Randy resides in Buffalo.

8 BOB WEISS

Position: Guard

Height: 6-3

Weight: 185

Age: 32

Born: May 7, 1942, Easton, Pa.

High School: Athens (Pa.)

College: Penn State '65

Residence: Chicago

NBA Experience: Philadelphia, Seattle, Milwaukee, Chicago, Buffalo, 10th year

How Acquired: From Chicago Sept. 4, 1974, for Matt Guokas and two 2nd round draft choices

THIS SEASON: A smart running guard, who also is regarded as an outstanding defensive player, Weiss will be the Braves' top backcourt reserve. Not only is he a good shooter, but the 9-year NBA veteran is highly capable of running the ballclub when Ernie D is out of the lineup.

LAST YEAR: Used principally as a relief guard, Weiss averaged 8.5 points a game and made .446 of his field goal attempts. A good foul shooter, he connected on .835 of his free throws. As Chicago's sixth man, his aggressive style of play sparked the Bulls on numerous occasions. Until he was injured shortly before the end of the season, Weiss had not missed a game with the Bulls since joining them from Milwaukee during 1968-69. Altogether, he played in 538 consecutive games to earn the distinction as the league's "iron man." Bob shook off the injury to play in all 11 of the Bulls' playoff games last spring, and averaged about five points per contest.

CAREER: During his nine years in the NBA, Weiss has established himself as one of the league's better clutch players. In 579 games, he scored 5,365 points, an average of 9.3 per contest. His lifetime field goal percentage is .427, and he has made better than 83 percent of his free throws. Bob had his best season in 1969-70 when he scored 11.5 points a game with a field goal percentage of .427 and connected on more than 84 percent of his free throws. During his last five seasons with the Bulls, he averaged more than 27 minutes played per game though used mostly in reserve roles. Weiss is especially effective in the playoffs. In 36 games, all but one of them with Chicago, he has averaged 10.1 points per contest. A graduate of Penn State, he was Philadelphia's third round draft choice in 1965. He went to Seattle in the 1967 expansion draft, and then to Milwaukee in the 1968 expansion draft. In November of that year, he and Bob Love were traded to Chicago for Flynn Robinson.

NOTES: Weiss is lefthanded. He was a teammate of the Braves' Gar Heard at Chicago. He and his wife, Bobbie, and their two young daughters have resided in Arlington Heights, Ill., but are planning to buy a home in the Buffalo area.

3 LEE WINFIELD

Position: Guard

Height: 6-2

Weight: 174

Age: 27

Born: Feb. 4, 1947 St. Louis, Mo.

High School: Sumner H.S., St. Louis, Mo.

College: North Texas State '69

Residence: St. Louis, Mo.

NBA Experience: Seattle, Buffalo, 6th year

How Acquired: Free Agent, 1973

THIS SEASON: A talented player, who has been hampered by a knee injury for well over a year, Lee will be a backup guard during the coming season.

LAST YEAR: Winfield played in 36 of the Braves' regular season games, averaging three points per contest. His amazing quickness was reflected in the fact he stole the ball from the opponents 15 times.

CAREER HISTORY: Two seasons ago, Lee was fast becoming one of the NBA's better guards after earning a starting berth with the Seattle Supersonics. His great leaping ability, speed and quickness made him a formidable threat offensively and defensively. Then, he was sidelined during the latter half of the 1972-73 campaign with a serious knee injury. In 53 games, Lee averaged nearly seven points and slightly more than three assists per contest. During the last two summers, he worked especially hard to strengthen his knee by doing various exercises and playing basketball in his hometown of St. Louis. In five NBA seasons, (four with Seattle), he has averaged eight points a game. His best year was 1971-72 when he scored 861 points, or 10.6 a game. In addition, he had a field goal percentage of .496.

NOTES: Lee, his wife, Christine, and their two children reside in the St. Louis area during the off-season.

34 BERNARD HARRIS

Position: Center-Forward
Height: 6-10
Weight: 195
Age: 23
Born: Nov. 26, 1950, Roanoke, Va.
High School: Northside (Roanoke, Va.)
College: Virginia Commonwealth '74
Residence: Richmond, Va.
NBA Experience: None
How Acquired: 4th Round, 1974 Draft

THIS SEASON: Bernie comes to the Braves with impressive credentials and probably will be used by Coach Jack Ramsay as a backup forward and center.

LAST YEAR: Scored 461 points in 24 games for VCU, an average of 19.2 per contest. Also hauled down an average of 11.6 rebounds a game. Was All-State in Virginia and was honorable mention All-South.

CAREER HISTORY: Harris ranks second on Virginia Commonwealth's all-time scoring and rebounding lists with 1,379 points and 839 rebounds in four varsity seasons. He is an excellent shooter, as evidenced by his career field goal percentage of .531. During his sophomore year at VCU, Bernie made better than 60 per cent of his field goal attempts. He was the only college player in Virginia to earn All-State honors during the last three seasons.

Weight: 240
Age: 25
Born: June 14, 1949
High School: Hoke County, Raeford, N.C.
College: Wake Forest '71
Residence: Winston-Salem, N. C.
NBA Experience: Cincinnati, Buffalo, 2nd year
How Acquired: Free agent, 1974

THIS SEASON: A strong, powerfully-built athlete, Gil will be a reserve forward for the Braves during the 1974-75 campaign.

LAST YEAR: McGregor played for the Alco team in Bologna, Italy, averaging 20 points and about 13 rebounds a game.

CAREER HISTORY: He was Cincinnati's sixth round draft choice in 1971, and appeared in 42 games for the Royals during the 1971-72 season, averaging 4.1 ppg. He was placed on waivers shortly before the start of the 1972-73 campaign after the team had moved to KC-Omaha. He played for title-winning Wilkes Barre in the Eastern League that season. In addition, he helped coach the Wake Forest freshman team and assisted with recruiting.

PRESS INFORMATION

MEDIA CREDENTIALS:

Single game and season press passes for Buffalo Braves home games may be obtained by calling Publicity Director Mike Shaw at 716–856-3131 (Home: 754-8843) or by writing to him at the Braves office, Memorial Auditorium, Buffalo, N. Y. 14202. Press row seats are to be used by working members of the media only. Western New York media members are issued a season press pass that will serve as admission to the Auditorium and to press row. It will be used for identification in locker rooms and press rooms.

SPORTSCOMM SERVICE:

Sportscomm (Communications Services for Sports Industry) again will provide Xerox Telecopiers in the Braves' Press Room adjacent to the Locker Rooms for writers filing stories to their papers. The Buffalo contacts for ordering the service are: Howie Meyers and Dave Curtiss. They may be contacted by phone at work (716–862-6515) or at home (Meyers - 717–695-3238), (Curtiss - 716–632-4996). Sportscomm's national director is Russ Bailey, 2101 Route 70 East, Cherry Hill, N. J. 08003 (609–424-4111).

WESTERN UNION:

Western Union service will not be available at Braves' games this season, other than scores ticker. Those writers desiring to use Western Union after 6 P.M., however, may phone in copy by WATTS line to WU's Eastern office in Moorestown, N.J. (1–800–627-2221)

VISITING RADIO AND TELEVISION:

Radio and television broadcast locations for Braves' home games are located court-side. The Braves will assist in developing pre- and post-game interviews if notified in advance. Buffalo telephone company contacts are staff Assistant Pete Thompson (716–857-6935) or Customer Service Consultant Norm Naimey (716–857-6137) in the Special Accounts Office, New York Telephone Co., Room 904, Erie County Savings Bank Bldg., One Main Place, Buffalo, N. Y. 14202.

WBEN TO TELEVISE 15 BRAVES GAMES

Fifteen Buffalo Braves road games, including four in Boston, will be televised on WBEN (Ch. 4) during the 1974-75 season. Calling the action will be one of the nation's top sportscasters, Van Miller. For the fifth straight season, Van also will handle the play-by-play of Braves games on WBEN Radio (930). WBEN will air all 82 Braves games during the season including 70 on radio. In addition, three simulcasts are planned. Miller, a Dunkirk native and graduate of Syracuse University, previously broadcast Buffalo Bills football games for 12 years. Games to be televised are:
